Many in Addison forgot, for when the siren sounded many rushed out to learn where the fire was.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Mussolini's venture into Greece is proving more disastrous every day. One entire division of Italians was surrounded in the mountains of northwestern Greece and the survivors who have not surrendered fled leaving quantities of arms and munitions behind.

On the front farther south Italians are trying to hold the ground gained two weeks ago against increasing pressure of Greek soldiers. Some of Mussolini's crack Alpine troops are included in the hundreds of prisoners sent to Salonika by the Greeks.

Latest development in the battle of Britain has been the appearance of Italian planes over England. A few days ago small units of Mussolini's air fleet went into battle with German fighter planes as escorts, but Monday the Italians tried attacking alone with sad results for the latter. Eighteen bombers swept towards Britain accompanied by 60 fighter ships. British pursuit planes flew to the attack shooting down eight bombers and five fighters in 15 minutes, sending the squadron scurrying for home.

The British admitted losing 65,000 tons of shipping last week, including one large steamer. The Nazis are taking severe toll of shipping by sending bombing planes far into the Atlantic to attack convoys. This new menace appears more deadly to the supply lines of the Empire than U-boat warfare.

The protracted stay of Gen. Weygand in North Africa is giving Hitler a mild case of jitters. Weygand was ordered back to Vichy but failed to return and the belief grows that he may be trying to swing sentiment in French North Africa to support the de Gaulle movement. There are many French divisions in North Africa which could play a decisive role against the Italians. (Continued on Page 8)

Dairyleague Reprints Advertiser Editorial

The editor of this paper feels proud of the fact that the editors of the Dairymen's League News saw fit to copy one of his recent editorials on milk. The League News is one of the largest publications in the country devoted to the promotion and the production and distribution of milk. They receive papers from everywhere in the milk shed and the fact that an Addison Advertiser editorial was chosen relative to the strike situation, speaks for the local editorial policy on milk, regardless of League or non-League affiliations.

Red Cross Drive Continues Here

Red Cross drive workers are making a house-to-house canvass throughout the village and vicinity in an effort to make the Addison drive greater this year than in any year in recent history.

The necessity for more funds this year than any other is apparent from the world disasters, according to Chairman Elmer Bovee. Mr. Bovee states that if anyone is not at home when the solicitor calls and they wish to contribute they may contact him or any member of the committee and a second call will be made. It is the hope of the 21 members of the committee on solicitation here that every home in Addison will display a Red Cross seal by Thanksgiving when the drive will close.

Congressman Cole Asks Return To Democracy and Religion

Reminiscences on early Addison life—Speaker at joint Civic Society and Ad Club meeting in AHS—Explains measures for national defense—Wants reappraisal of Democracy—States Religion is soul of Democracy—Large crowd at dinner meeting — Mrs. Gladstone presents vocal solos.

Congressman W. Sterling Cole's homecoming Tuesday night was a gala occasion in Addison. Mr. Cole, a former resident of Addison was the guest of honor at a joint dinner sponsored by the Women's Civic Society and the Advertising Club. Many friends of the Congressman in Addison attended the dinner.

President Milton Crane of the Advertising Club presented Mrs. Irving R. Gladstone, vocalist of the evening and Carl Vanderburg her accompanist. She sang two songs reminiscent of the World War owing to the nearness to Armistice Day. The songs were "Roses of Picardy" and "Jeannine" from "Lilac Time".

Democracy at Work
Credit for the program was given to the Women's Civic Society by Mr. Crane, who then presented Miss Katharine Darrin, president of the Civic Society. She spoke of the cooperation of the Civic Society with other organizations and the interest in civic affairs evidenced by the club.

Miss Darrin said there were two things she wished to speak about before introducing the speaker. She said, "I am proud of the American people. To-day's dictators say a Democracy is bulky and cannot function. We went to the people in a national election last week and the majority decided. America gave a marvelous demonstration of Democracy." She then spoke of the Red Cross drive and its insurance for disaster.

Cole Reminiscences
Congressman Cole spoke of his early days in Addison, of the absence of many familiar faces and the many newcomers he met. He congratulated the Senior Class, who served the supper, on their desire for a trip to Washington, reminding them it was from Addison High as a senior that he first went to Washington. Thoughts that came to him reminded him of the old swimming hole near the old dam, the Indians on Academy Hill, his questioning as to whether the high school principal still kept a cow and his son delivered milk to the neighbors and if a boy still sold pop corn to Erie train passengers. He spoke of the rivalry between the "Steubeners, the Cricketers and the Tigers."

America Awakens
He then said in part: "During the past three or four months the people of the United States have come to the sudden realization that we are part of the entire world. We are through with the idea of political and economic isolationism. (Continued on Page 4)

ARMISTICE—1918 AND 1940

Following the Armistice in 1918 the French built an enduring stone shrine to mark the ending of hostilities. In 1940 Germans took savage delight in dynamiting this shrine erected to symbolize the ending of a "war to end wars". And 22 years after the date Britain, France and America celebrated so hilariously the "cease firing" order, London was bombed at the fateful hour of eleven in the morning.

So does time erase the hopes, the ambitions and the accomplishments of men. To the German mind the Armistice was the blackest hour in that nation's history—an hour which men lived to erase. Why was it Germany's blackest hour? Because the Allies forced upon that country after the Armistice the most humiliating peace in modern history. America alone, of all the countries aligned against Germany, counseled for terms which would heal the wounds instead of rubbing them with salt.

Two years ago most Americans were able to calmly reflect upon the fact our noble fight in defense of Democracy was as futile as it was high in ideals. Yet today calm thinking is impossible for many Americans. Many of us are being incited toward joining again in an "all out" effort to save the warring nations from each other. We have been urged to aid Britain in "every way short of war", which is laudable to most of us. But soon that refrain is to be changed and Americans will be urged by their fellow countrymen and by many of our leaders in authority, to actually join Britain in this fray. To this plea we should turn deaf ears.

If the last war and the interim have taught us anything it is that trying to settle the quarrels of Europe is a never-ending, thankless job—a lesson which must not be so quickly forgotten. If on Monday our people stood for a minute's meditation they remembered that, then the dead will not have died in vain.

FIX THE SIDEWALKS

Pity the poor pedestrians who must wade or detour the pools of water that flood the many under-grade sidewalks in this place.

Soon the Fall rains, slush and melting snow will make impassable ponds on nearly every residential street in town—pools too deep for ordinary rubbers to keep walkers' feet dry—small lakes that can only be safely crossed in hip boots.

Hundreds of property owners who otherwise take pride in the appearance and upkeep of their places neglect sidewalks that send scores of children into school with wet feet whenever there is rain, slush and melting snow to settle on these lower-than-legal walks.

We are not certain what legal redress a wet-footed citizen might have against such property owners but we are tempted to publicize them by listing their addresses. Walks which are not raised to proper level this month will cause trouble and profanity throughout the winter season.

WRITERS GIVE WARNING

Fourteen prominent American authors have issued a statement to the American people warning against Frenchmen who have come to the United States since the German conquest of France to plead the cause of the conqueror.

After referring to the close bond that hitherto has united American and French writers, the statement points out that the French emissaries of Hitler are endeavoring "to play upon our traditional loyalties and friendships". The writers charge that the Vichy government emissaries "are plainly performing a definite mission for the German tyrants", by attempting to undermine American confidence in the British. "Theirs is not the voice of the true French we shall always honor and respect", says the statement, "but of a defeated and misguided France, led by some of the very traitors who contrived the defeat".

Authors who signed the statement are Philip Wylie, Robert Sherwood, Vincent Sheean, Elmer Rice, Henry Pringle, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Lewis Mumford, Marc Connelly, Christian Gauss, Struthers Burt, Van Wyck Brooks, Maxwell Anderson, Frederick Lewis Allen and Herbert Agar.

Americans who are mindful of the sort of France that existed before the German invasion are not likely to be led astray by the appeasement pleas of Vichy envoys. Others would do well to heed the warning sent out by the American authors.

TOWARDS HIGHER VISION

In times of great world turmoil, the church frequently is the target of special criticism for failing to hold aloft the vision of spiritual destiny needed to carry men through difficult circumstances. Whether or not such criticisms are warranted, there should be encouragement, even for the critics, in the plans being made by the Greater New York Federation of Churches for an extensive campaign for "spiritual armament" to carry through November and December.

A number of leading New York clergymen have volunteered their services as speakers under the direction of the Evangelistic Committee of the Federation. The general object is to call people away from the despair and pessimism, the materialism and sordidness of a war-torn world and turn them toward the eternal principles that will outlast swords and guns. It has been said in past periods of stress that the church follows the crowd instead of leading it. This effort of the New York clergy to reverse the present dangerous trend of the world is an answer to such criticism.

Efforts like this deserve widespread notice, for they may have deeper consequences in the long run than rearmament with material weapons. It is particularly significant to find New York City leading the way in this kind of enterprise.

CREATE JOBS BY RESEARCH

The president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Carl T. Compton, believes that a billion dollars should be spent for the creation of jobs by the industries of the United States.

This billion would not be tax money, for Dr. Compton asserts all that is necessary is for American industry to spend two per cent of income in research work. His statement is based on a survey of 188 of the nation's manufacturing concerns.

While perhaps not all industries are in position to make such expenditures, the idea is undoubtedly sound and practicable. The vast benefits which research confers in myriad fields of endeavor will be readily conceded by economists and industrialists in general.

Inventors, engineers, chemists and other technicians engaged in pure research have brought into being the vast proportion of new products that create and fill new wants and solve old problems. Such a program as is suggested by Dr. Compton would make the United States less dependent upon the rest of the world, and conceivably might even prevent war and solve many problems of government.

That research brings new products which in turn increase jobs has been demonstrated in a big way in the glass industry. New uses of glass have been continually found through the research men in the glass industry, plants expanded, more men and women employed and new production levels attained.

It is expected someday that research may take silver out of politics, which would prove a boon to taxpayers. Silver producers must realize that the artificial prices for their product, maintained through domestic subsidy, cannot prevail indefinitely, and they have financed research to find new uses for silver. The latest use is silverlining of cans for foodstuffs, and in containers for pharmaceuticals and chemicals. The addition of silver to stainless steel has made the latter four times as resistant to the effects of salt water, which importance is reflected in the building of ocean-flying planes and ocean shore structures. Eventually industrial use may outweigh the monetary value of silver.

THE THING NEEDFUL!

Just try to put anything across in this world without the aid of enthusiasm and see how far you get!

Enthusiasm means first and last an abiding, undiminishable faith in your own ability, and in your own project.

Whether you carry that project out, or carry it out feet first, depends on this quality which the Greeks, who gave us the word, connected with the indwelling of the gods in man.

We moderns would be more apt to liken enthusiasm to the electric spark which bridges the gap between two live wires. It is the "miracle" which joins an idea with an accomplishment.

But however you account for this unaccountable something in man, the fruits of it are plain. Here is the overcomer of obstacles, the breaker down of opposition, the surmounter of difficulties, the source of unwearied energy.

Liken life to a marathon, and enthusiasm becomes that second and third and tenth wind which supplies the lagging muscles with strength to carry on.

The world admires this "sticktoitiveness" and gives its heart to the man who proves he has it.

CONFINE THE WAR AREA

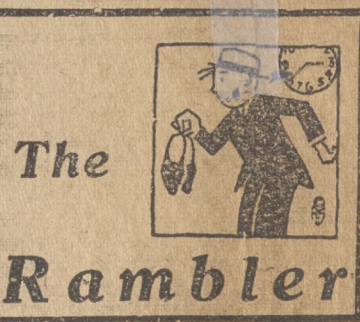

Separate factions, with widely separated opinions, are engaged in debate over the course we of the United States should accept in the war now ravaging Europe. Some would go all the way in aiding Great Britain, while others are bent upon a security at home that would safeguard our existence. Which of the two courses to accept seems to warrant argument.

It would seem that our first line of defense is the present theatre of war. To give over one-half of our defense machinery to Great Britain, as we appear to be pledged, or to give all is a question that should be answered without delay. If we were in a better position of production, the problem would be simplified. If we had a surplus of aircraft, seacraft and landcraft the problem would not exist. But how to best serve our immediate danger suggests that we do everything possible to confine the battleground.

England is faced with another problem that is just beginning to dawn on us. She must have more facilities for transporting her living necessities, plus her fighting needs, if she is to survive. She cannot long endure if her shipping continues to bear the brunt of attack, and during the past month the losses have been on the increase.

We must admit that dictators have a way of getting things done and putting things in motion that democracies lack because of old traditions. There must be so much talking and debating before we finally get to hitting on all cylinders. It would appear that all this to-do about democracy and patriotism, its existence and its stability, would come to naught unless we accept the initiative of the dictator-nations and make our conclusions quickly and effectively.

UP TO HIS OLD TRICKS

I wonder what pictures Dick Curtis was drawing on the paper table cloth at the banquet in high school Tuesday night? I never knew Dick was a "doodler". A "doodler" is a person who makes designs when given a pencil, a blank sheet of paper and nothing else to do.

Sterling Cole's plea for a return to religion was excellently presented at the Civic Society-Advertising Club banquet Tuesday night. And the plea for the teaching of the truth of democracy was also timely.

Congratulations to the home owners who are fixing their walks around the village. Have noticed five or six walks straightened out in the past few months.

Was noticing two men in street during the past week, wondering on the ways of one of them had served in Alaska and another had served in South America, and here they are both in Addison, far removed from their former living places. Dr. Auringer was in Alaska and Charles Blair, engineer on the bridge construction served two years in South America.

Some women have asked me to say a word relative to parking on crosswalks on Main street, especially in front of the post office. This is an important crossing now and should be kept clear. In addition cars backing out from that space endanger people trying to cross the street at that point. I hope something is done about this.

Rambler's Column.

I wonder if those girls with bushy permanents know what a confounded nuisance they are. Years ago it was considered very ill mannered to sit in a theatre with a hat on. That was fine, usually every one had a good view of the stage or screen. Then bobbed hair and permanents came along. The view is obstructed again. I know because I sat behind a blond brush heap Sunday evening at the movies and have a "crick" in my neck yet, from trying to see around that mass of flying curls. They were worse than an old fashioned poke bonnet, two to one. Can't we do something about it? Wish someone gals a hint to wear a net or maybe one of those stocking caps would do. Anything so the fellow behind could see a little more than the upper corner of the screen.

Dick

William "Billy" Mitchell, former brigadier general in the United States Army was demoted to colonel and later court martialed for his outspoken criticism of the army officers who could not see the advantage of air planes. He published this in book form in 1925. He died disgraced in 1936. Now, the question in my mind is whether the same blundering and unseeing idiots who court martialed him are still in control in army headquarters.

How many of you wondered where the fire was at 11 o'clock on Armistice Day when the fire siren shrieked?

There has been considerable discussion in some circles recently about the worth of the Community calendar when some organizations change their regular meeting times for one reason or another and conflict with other existing organizations. And I say there are still some organizations who do not use it and find themselves in conflict.

John O'Keefe called our attention to the fact that no one would know who was elected president of the United States after reading last week's paper. I'm sorry for the oversight, but for the benefit of those who do not know, Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected president on the Democratic ticket. He thus becomes the first president in the history of the country to be elected for a third term.

Four years ago last Saturday the Rambler came to Addison. It was a cold, gray, bleak November day. The streets were deserted after a rain storm. The hills looked cold and desolate. I remember I went to my room and wrote letters home to cheer myself. It was not long before I knew people, kind people and now I feel that I sort of belong here. Many wonder why a person stays in towns this size when bigger fields offer. There is something in knowing your neighbors and their knowing you and your faults and overlooking them. There is comfort in the hills, the trees, gardens and in being able to enjoy the leisure of life.

That's all.

From a few mechanics and bench hands who puttered away in barns making a handful of cars at the turn of the century, present-day automobile manufacturing makes possible, directly and indirectly, an annual employment of 6,500,000 people.

OUR COUNTRY HEALS ALL Disputes

From Rochester Democrat & Chronicle

Elections may come and elections may go, but the symbol of unity expressed by the American flag rises above all party divisions and discords.

Recently two Baltimore couples got into trouble for using the flag as a decoration on a motor vehicle. In both cases the flag was painted on the car and in both cases the accused persons were haled into court on a charge of desecrating the national emblem. One couple was fined $59.90, the other, pleading not guilty, obtained an adjournment, although the magistrate said he thought there clearly had been desecration of the flag.

It is well for every American to remember that the flag is an object of reverence that must be kept free from the slightest suggestion of cheapness or disrespect. A Federal law prohibits the use of the flag, coat of arms or other insignia of the United States or any simulation thereof" on any trademark. The military code pertaining to the display of the flag is very strict. It provides among other things that it must not be used as a portion of a costume or athletic uniform, that it must not be embroidered upon cushions or handkerchiefs nor printed on paper napkins or boxes.

Fainting the flag on an automobile, even if done innocently or with patriotic motive, would seem to be an offense against the dignity of the flag, an exposure to defacement or possible mutilation.

The American people are of one mind where the sanctity of the flag is concerned. They may fight to the bitter end over elections, but with one accord they snap to attention when the flag is raised. As a reminder of the essential unity that runs beneath exterior differences, these Baltimore cases have served a useful purpose at an appropriate time.

FOREIGN BRIEFS

The glory that was Greece seems re-established in the gumption that is Greece.

The Greeks have told Turkey that they can get along without help. Possibly soliloquy of Il Duce: "What do they think they've got that I haven't got?"

With every increase in tobacco prices in Britain, millions more packages of chewing gum have been sold, according to London dealers. As the troops have first call on the short supply, the civilians' "ration" is cut accordingly.

Four million earplugs recently issued by the British government are going begging in London, according to air raid wardens. The people evidently want to hear what's going on.

As a result of air raids on Britain, the ministry of pensions has granted 7,840 allowances for injuries and 450 pensions. 402 widows will receive pensions, 19 to go to other dependents, and 29 to people permanently disabled in the raid.

Argentine cattle raisers have offered the British embassy at Buenos Aires free fresh meat for stocking all British warships visiting Argentina ports in the future. Already several shipments of free beef have been sent to England for use of British troops.

The French freighter San Francisco recently sailed from New York for England. It will be used to remove French citizens from the British Isles to France. It is estimated there are about 6,000 French citizens in the British Isles which both the English and French desire removed.

TAX FAX Of New York State

In 1938 the bonded debt of local governments in the State of New York amounted to $3,518 million, or almost three times their governmental-cost payments for the same year as reported by the State Comptroller.

Recently a town of 13,000 discovered that it could save $3,430 a year — merely by taking cash discounts on its purchases.

Before today's extraordinary expenditures for national defense, approximately one tax dollar out of every six in the United States went for schools, one of the largest single divisions of governmental expenditures.

According to a recent study of the Temporary National Economic Committee, taxes in 1938-39 were equal to more than 20% of the total consumer income of the United States.

New York State's budget has grown from $600,000 a day in 1934 to better than a $1,000,000 a day in 1939, according to the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey.

More than 4,000,000 men and women with an estimated 12,000,000 dependents are employed by some branch of federal, state, and local government in the United States today.

Tricks With Turnips

Turnips contain about the same amount of vitamin C as do tomatoes, and wise homemakers will serve them often during the months when they are inexpensive and plentiful. Cook the turnips only until they are tender. Variety in serving them and a dish made attractive also stimulate interest.

The New York State College of Home Economics offers several ways to prepare them:

Mashed turnips: Pare and slice the turnips and drop the slices into a pan with enough boiling water to cover them. Cook them until tender (from 45 to 60 minutes); drain them well. Put them back into the pan and mash them thoroughly. Season them with salt, butter and a little pepper, and serve them at once.

Turnips with cheese: Peel three medium sized yellow turnips, cut them in slices, and boil them for about 15 minutes in boiling salted water. Make a white sauce of 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of flour, 1 1/2 cups of milk, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon of pepper. Drain the turnips and put them in a greased casserole. Pour the sauce over them and sprinkle with 1/2 cup of grated cheese. Bake them in a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) about 30 minutes, and serve them hot.

Stuffed turnips: Pare 6 medium-sized turnips and cook them whole until tender. Remove the centers of the turnips, leaving a shell about 1/2 inch in thickness. Mash the centers, add salt and pepper to taste, 2 tablespoons of melted butter, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup bread crumbs, and 1/2 cup cold minced pork or ham. Mix them well and heat the mixture in the turnip cups. Brush the surface of the

I WONDER

I wonder . . . if the approaching Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons won't serve as refreshing reminder that peace and freedom are the most precious gifts our country bestows upon us.

I wonder why special events announcements insist upon offering inane comments during an important broadcast when the listener is interested in the proceedings?

I wonder if there is anything more restful than a church choir's singing. If people would sing more hymns of love instead of songs of hate—what a wonderful world it would be to live in.

Many vegetables that can be stored, such as beets, cabbage, carrots, celery and onions, can be made into pickles and relishes late into the fall and winter. Serve Soup For Mid-day Luncheon

A soup luncheon solves the mid-day meal problem... who has the table set for the "young bloods" home from a morning at school, or their mothers, gathered for an afternoon of bridge, sewing or club activities. For when there's a bite in the air and folks arrive with a pinched blue look, they'll agree that there's no remedy more delightfully appealing than a bowl of zesty, steaming soup. The possibility in the use of canned soups are infinite. Often two kinds may be merged to give a distinctly and pleasingly elusive flavor.

SEAFOOD DISHES

OFFER VARIETY
The great variety of fish and shellfish in our American rivers and oceans could become an abundant source of high grade protein at low cost if we include fish in our menu more than once a week.

Here's a good recipe:
Fish Pie—(Serves 4 to 6)
2 cups large cooked fish flakes
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 cup peas
1 tsp. grated onion
1 tsp. minced green pepper
1 cup well-seasoned mashed potatoes

1 cup medium thick white sauce.
Heat 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan, slowly stir 2 tablespoons flour. Cook 2 minutes, add salt, and slowly add 1 cup milk. Stir until creamy. Add all other ingredients except mashed potatoes. Turn into greased baking pan. Cover with top of mashed potatoes. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 12 minutes.

Free Turkey, Lunches—Maybe

Washington — Schools serving lunches under the Department of Agriculture's program designed to improve the diets and health of undernourished children may receive free turkeys. The Department announced plans Saturday to buy more and asked the turkey industry to submit bids on birds larger than ordinarily useable in homes, and which producers have trouble in marketing.

The quantity to be bought will depend upon prices, officials said. And if prices rise to levels considered "fair" by the department, the proposed government purchases would be abandoned. If the purchases are made, however, children attending schools in low income areas may eat free turkeys with their lunches during the next several weeks.

This year's turkey "crop" is estimated at the record figure of 33,138,000 birds and last year's crop was nearly as great. A normal annual production is about 26,000,000. Farmers now are receiving about 14.7¢ per pound according to officials who consider a "fair" price would be about 17.5¢.

COLORED TOPS

Add new zest to the top-spinning activities of the younger members of the families. Paint the top different colors, in sections, using bright shades, reds and greens and yellows and blues.

When the top is spun, the colors blend to give new harmonious shades. The effect is very pretty and very mysterious to young people.

They see colors on the still top, but when it is spinning the result will be the composite color, an entirely different one. If a large number of different sections are all colored differently, the result is gray, tending to white in strong light.

TOAST WALNUTS

Roasted walnuts give extra punch to the refreshment table. Place the walnuts in their shells in a shallow pan and heat 15 minutes in a modern oven. Serve warm. Insides will be warm after 15 or 20 minutes.

"DODDLING" BOOMS LAUNDERING

Cleveland — The American Institute of Laundering reports a big seasonal boom in the laundry business from mid-September through October. The American habit of "doddlng" on table linens at the thousands of campaign luncheons and in restaurants by enthusiastic partisans gets the credit for this added business. Using visual education methods to prove their arguments, they drew maps, made charts of returns, tabulated probable electoral vote and the vote of class, creed and color.

HARVEST JINGLE

Now some are fond of apple pie. And some are strong for mince. And some for cherry, lemon, sigh; But I've a favorite, since — The zest of autumn fills the air. And though no country bumpkin — By what is seasonal, I swear: The perfect pie — the pumpkin!

1 1/2 cups cooked cooked ham
1 tsp. tarragon vinegar
3/4 tsp. prepared mustard
2 tsp. horseradish
1/2 tsp. salt
Pinch black pepper

Season ham with vinegar, mustard, horseradish and salt and pepper to taste. Moisten with salad dressing. Slice bread 1/4-inch thick. Spread lightly with butter. Spread the ham mixture on slices, put slices together to make sandwiches. Fry in butter until delicately brown. Serve with green salad.

LIVER-RICE LOAF EASY TO PREPARE

Liver and rice loaf makes a tasty dish, is economical and easy to prepare.

Liver and Rice Loaf (Serves 4 to 6)

1 cup rice
1 quart water
1 pound left-over cooked liver
1 onion
5 springs parsley
3 or 4 stalks celery

Wash rice and cook until tender in boiling salted water. Do not drain, but let the rice absorb the water to form a sticky mass which will act as a binder for the loaf. Grind or chop left-over cooked liver very fine. Slice onion, chop parsley and celery and saute a few minutes in bacon drippings. Mix the rice, liver, vegetables and seasoning. If desired, add canned tomatoes, catsup or chili sauce. Bake the mixture in a greased shallow pan in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F. to 400 degrees F.) for 45 minutes or an hour.

Left-over cooked oatmeal or mashed potatoes may be used instead of the rice.

Aviation Not Alone For Male Sex

Aviation is not entirely a man's business. There are many non-flying jobs in aviation which women can do better than men—interior decorators for airliners, designers for flying clothes, dietitians at airports for flying food. These are but a few of the many openings for girls today.

There are young women holding important jobs in the traffic end of air transportation. When I was a passenger on Eastern Air Transport, I recall being told that a woman was in complete charge of reservations on the entire airway line, every reservation for space going through her board at Richmond, Va., by teletype.

In Alameda, California, Patricia Kendall served as an aerial policeman, reporting all violations of air traffic laws. Mary L. Goodrich owns an airplane model factory at Hartford, Conn. Down in Bristol, Va., I remember seeing Mary Dulany who was actually an airport manager though she was only 24. At that time, she was reporting the weather, putting the mail on the big ships and taking it off, loading the air express, checking passengers and loads on every plane and even selling tickets!

There are a few—not many—women meteorologists, radio operators and airport dispatchers. A half dozen sturdy pioneers are studying aeronautical designing.

There is plenty of room. You will get your chance if you show ability and a willingness to learn.

A New Giant of Industry Awakes

The important significance of phenolic plastics in today's industry is strikingly indicated by the recent completion at North Tonawanda, N. Y., of the new $2,000,000 plant of the Durez Company. This new plant will manufacture phenol from benzene, hydrochloric acid and air. It has been under construction for two years, and the management states it will have a capacity of 15,000,000 pounds of phenol annually.

The word DUREZ is coined from the words durable and resins and the plant bearing the name is now one of the largest makers of molding compounds in America. Durez has a wide variety of uses in industry. In the form of oil-soluble resins it is mixed with varnishes and paints to lighten their hues and to speed up drying. Various resins in the formula give a watertight proof glue for bonding plywood and an adhesive for anchoring and bristles in brushes. However, its chief application is as a molding powder which, when subjected to heat and pressure, forms vacuum-cleaning hoods, tube and bottle caps, camera housings, radio cabinets, interior trim for autos, and hundreds of other articles.

The growth in the use of plastics was extremely slow for many years after Bakelite was pioneered. Due to the cost factor of materials and the lack of suitable machinery for utilizing them. However, during the last five years, industrial chemists and machine designers have wrought wonders in developing new types of plastics and machines for their utilization. This young giant industry now is taking enormous strides and is fast replacing woods and metals in the composition of countless articles of common use.

Span Engineer Says State Opposed Design

Tacoma, Wash. — A statement issued by Clark W. Eldridge, chief engineer of the ill-fated Narrows Bridge, which collapsed in a 35-mile gale last week, claims that state highway engineers had protested the design, but that it was built as it was in the interest of economy.

"The employment of Eastern engineers was because of a requirement by the money lending agencies that engineers of national reputation be employed," Eldridge said. He added that the state was told it could not have the money unless Eastern engineers were used.

The span, opened four months ago, was built with a PWA grant of $2,800,000 and an RFC loan of $3,520,000.

Governor Clarence D. Martin said that the bridge, the third largest suspension span in the world, would be rebuilt. Civic leaders said they would ask that the replacement be a two-deck bridge, the lower one providing a rail connection between Tacoma, near which is the Army's rapidly expanding Fort Lewis and McChord Field and Bremerton, home of the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

Lufkin, Texas—There was a shortage of ballots in Lufkin on election day and 400 voters did not get a chance to vote. County Auditor Ames Courtney said he thought he had ordered enough as he got 2,000 more than for the last election.

Darville — Cedric Van Clise and Virginia Myers were arrested in Hornell and held for local police on a charge of petit larceny.

One Way to Be Drafted

Draft stories are falling everywhere. An old one being revived is about the three McFookies who showed up for physical examination.

"What shape are you in?" the draft officer asked the first man. "Terrible," he replied. "I don't fear, I can't see from nodding, and I got a stomachick sickness."

"A faker, eh?" roared the officer. "Line up over there. You'll do."

"How are you?" he asked the next applicant.

"Never has a man been such condition," was the reply. "I got pneumonia, my feet are flat, all over I got arthritis, and even new I don't hear you speaking."

"Another dodger!" roared the officer, and called the third draftee who blithely declared, "Captain, I feel fine. Never should I feel stronger. My eyes are fine, I hear fine, I got a fine appetite like a horse and such heart, lungs and legs I got!"

"There!" shouted the draft officer! "A real patriotic man at last! A man of whom his country should be proud!"

"But, leesen," added the draftee. "Dunt you teenk I'm a leedle crazy in de head?"

Dish For This Week

Carrot Pudding

Turkeys are plentiful this fall, which probably means that more families, by cutting costs a bit on the "fixins," can afford turkey for Thanksgiving.

A Thanksgiving dessert that may be as festive as the traditional plum pudding or mince pie, but is less expensive, is carrot pudding. This recipe is suggested by the New York State College of Home Economics:

Carrot Pudding

1 cup of ground raw carrots
1 cup of ground tart apples
1 cup of raisins
1/2 cup of brown sugar
1/2 cup molasses
1 cup of ground suet
1/2 teaspoon of soda
1 teaspoon of baking powder
1 cup of flour
1/2 cup of bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon of nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon of cloves
1/2 teaspoon of cinnamon

Suggested moderate cost menu: Clear tomato soup, crackers; olives or pickles and celery; roast turkey, gravy, bread stuffings, rice, scalloped onions, cranberry and orange relish, rolls; pickled peach gelatin salad; steamed carrot pudding with cream sauce, coffee.

Suggestions on planning: Canned tomato soup can be used; the stuffing for the turkey, the sauce for the onions, the cranberry and orange relish, the gelatin salad, and the carrot pudding can be made the day before and kept in the refrigerator. Let the children help prepare for the family holiday.

Sterling Cole Thanks Voters

Before departing for Washington to resume his duties as Member of Congress, Representative W. Sterling Cole issued a statement expressing personal gratification for the unusual majority given him by the voters of the 37th Congressional District in last Tuesday's election.

"The unprecedented vote accorded me by the people of this Congressional District on last Tuesday is naturally a personal gratification and has given me renewed courage to carry on my efforts as their Representative toward building a better and stronger America. With the heat of the campaign over and the voice of America having spoken, it is now the duty of all of us to work for the accomplishment of our common goal."

"As in the past, I shall continue to be guided by the expressions of my constituency and a fervent desire to see America grow and produce and prosper."

Defense Contracts To Area Concerns

The War Department has announced the awarding of national defense contracts to the Ingersoll-Rand Company and the Corning Glass Works—$92,027.50 to the former and $2,299.50 to the latter.

The Swanson Boat Company, Albion, Pa., received a contract for $67,237.68 for cars for the war department.

The Niagara Motors Corporation of Dunkirk, N. Y. received a contract in the amount of $28,389 for plunger forgings for the Navy Department.

Alco Products Company of Dunkirk, N. Y., has had its contract for gun carriages increased to take in the entire 1,000 specified in the option, raising the total order to more than $4,000,000. This plant is a part of the American Locomotive Company.

The Hewitt Rubber Company of Buffalo has received a Navy order for water and gasoline hose amounting to $10,550. Another Navy order was received by the General Drop Forge Company of Buffalo for alloy steel forgings in the amount of $10,801.

The potential energy contained in one year's supply of gasoline for U. S. motorists is greater than the available horsepower in 13 Niagara Falls if all the water were used for power.

Old bells can be made as good as new—but not so with old bellies.

During the last model year, an average of 426,000 automobile workers were on the payrolls. Weekly payrolls rose to $13,769,000.

Probably from no other food can calcium be supplied to the body so easily and so cheaply as from milk in some form, nutritionists say.

"SAFETY-ISMS"

A safety driver lives up to certain standards and abides by them.

He knows his own car thoroughly.

He is well informed about traffic regulations and obeys them.

He refuses to drive if his car is not in a sound condition or if he is physically incapable.

He accepts his civic responsibilities.

He usually achieves a "no accident" record.

Safely requires the efforts of all motorists—let's help him!

Farm Bureau Leaders Launch Member Canvass

Like a living organism, agriculture is constantly changing and needs study and guidance if it is to grow in strength and vitality, stated Harold Peet, Wyoming County farmer who addressed the meetings at Canisteo and Bath Monday and Tuesday evenings to launch the annual membership campaign.

Leon Dennis of Canisteo and A. E. Sudder of Painted Post chairmen of the rallies, pointed to the increase of 104 percent since 1933 as evidence that the farm bureau membership is on the gain.

Even last year, with the worst drought of history, the enrollment increased 10 per cent to an all time high of 1315. One hundred seventy-eight committeemen are engaged in a canvass which will be concluded in a county wide roundup, November 26.

Steuben Orders Ten Thousand Tons Lime

In the past two weeks ten thousand tons of limestone were ordered by Steuben County cooperators in the Agricultural Conservation Program, according to Leon Dennis, Canisteo, chairman of the county committee.

Purchased on what is called a grant of aid basis, the limestone costs the local farmer forty cents a ton in cash, and the balance is paid by the Agricultural Conservation Program. Delivery is made direct to the farm.

The orders were taken in the last two weeks at ten sign-up stations at Addison, Painted Post, Canisteo, Woodhull, Bath, Avoca, Troupsburg, Freedom, Cohocton and Prattburg.

At the same time Steuben county farmers ordered 350 tons of superphosphate offered at a cash cost of $1.60 a ton, the balance, as in the case of lime, paid by the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Orders for both limestone and superphosphate, Mr. Dennis states, will be taken by the ACP supervisors.

Legislative neutrality is not a guarantee of peace, even for us. This Navy.

"The Pacific coast fears war with the Orient. Let us compare Japan's naval strength with United States. They have 4,000 planes the same number as the U. S., we have 15 battle ships to their 10, ships, we are looking forward. Now, it looks as though England will not succeed and a victory for Nazi Germany and its philosophy of life to our guns are bigger, the ships of heavier tonnage and therefore superior to Japan. And naval authorities agree that a navy loses one-third of efficiency over 2,000 miles from its home bases, so there is no fear of invasion.

"All are agreed that we should arm to be able to care for ourselves. But a big army and navy does not make a strong government. We must resurvey the thing we are so determined to defend. I'm not so concerned about attacks from without as I am with things within our borders. The danger lies with us. A nation is not strong unless the spiritual values of the people are strong.

"Congress appropriated 12,000 million dollars to be spent in the next year and one-half for national defense. This means about one-tenth of the national income will be spent every year for armament as long as present world conditions continue.

"Fortunately one branch of the service did not wait for the bomb explosion of world affairs to put out its house in order. And it is of this I speak because I am more familiar with it. In 1934 Naval Officers came to Congress to ask for replacement of over age battle equipment. The recommendations made then were adopted. In 1938 officers of the Navy asked for additional equipment. The Naval officers saw the collision of Axis armed forces. Congress authorized 25 per cent increase. Again at the beginning of this year they were given an 11 per cent increase and during the summer asked for a 70 per cent increase for the so called 'two ocean navy'. Early this year we had twice as many battleships as six years ago. Take faith

Sixty Families Establish Homes In Addison In Past Two Years

In Addition 107 families have changed their places of residence during the past two years—Many purchased homes here—Some young people establish homes after marriage.

There has been a great movement of families into and out of Addison during the past two years. Many houses have been sold to people from Corning and Painted Post. Employees of the Corning Glass Works and Ingersoll-Rand of Painted Post have either rented or purchased homes here because of the cheaper living costs. In addition to the movement of people from outside into Addison there have been a few weddings within the community in which the young couples have established a home. Some are renting and others have purchased houses.

The movement of people into Addison and the establishment of homes by newlyweds have accounted for 60 homes being established here. And 107 families have moved within the community since January 1939. That is the 107 families already here have taken other quarters during that time for various reasons, so that there have been 167 definite changes in ownership or rentals during the period from January 1939 to November 1, 1940.

Sea Hero Dies—

From Southampton, England, comes word of the death of Sir Arthur Henry Rostron, 71, retired commodore of the Cunard Line, and captain of the Carpathia when she saved more than 700 survivors of the sunken Titanic in 1912. He succumbed to pneumonia on November 4.

Captain Rostron had been credited with saving more lives than any other living ship commander, and was acclaimed widely in the United States after his rescue of the Titanic survivors from the icy North Atlantic. He received a gold medal from the United States Congress.

After almost half a century at sea, 36 years of which were devoted to the Cunard Line, he retired in 1931. His most famous commands were as captain of the liner Mauretania and the Berengaria.

ARMISTICE DAY

Those who vividly remember that first Armistice Day—twenty-two years ago—with its wild, hysterical crowds... marching masses, singing, shouting, cheering to the booming of guns, the shrilling of whistles, the tolling of bells, instinctively contrast it with the Armistice Day celebration of Monday last. A few flags fluttered in the dank, damp atmosphere. At eleven o'clock a few bells rang and some whistles blew briefly. Some citizens stood silent and uncovered in memory of those who sacrificed their all in the war to end war.

At the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the President of the United States stood for a moment in silent tribute before delivering his Armistice Day address in the nearby Amphitheatre in Arlington National Cemetery. Banks, postoffices and public buildings were closed. Legion Posts held dances or other social affairs in the evening but on the whole the day celebrations were a far cry from that thunderous, enthusiastic and spontaneous outpouring of joy on the Armistice Day of 1918.

Hardenbrook Thanks Voters

Bath, Nov. 13 — The following statement was issued today by E. Ray Hardenbrook, re-elected Tuesday to the office of Steuben County Commissioner of Welfare:

Because of the unusual interest displayed in the recent contest for Commissioner of Welfare and the loyal support given me by devoted friends throughout the county, I wish to express to them my deep gratitude for their untiring work in my behalf and their vote, and to assure them that I will continue to administer the business of the County without fear or favor and with the greatest degree of efficiency possible.

I have endeavored to do all possible, within the restrictions placed upon me by law, for the aged, the infirm and those distressed by unemployment, and my interest in them will continue. I have also been mindful of the increased burdens of taxpayers and it shall be my endeavor to make their load as light as possible under the mandatory laws controlling the operation of the welfare office.

This year's campaign is now history but I do regret that one or two misguided individuals, in their anxiety to mislead their followers, found it necessary to deliberately and wilfully misrepresent the work and expenses of my department in their endeavor to accomplish my defeat. The sworn records of the county meant nothing to them as they manufactured figures of their own to meet their needs, a smearing process that availed them nothing and in which their candidate had no part.

Sports—

Those of you who listened to the Minnesota-Michigan game received several real thrills as those two mighty teams met. And those who were listening to Bill Stern speak about the National Methodist and Texas A & M game got quite a thrill in spite of the bleacher collapse and the sea of mud.

Minn. is leading in the National sports writers' poll of the country's outstanding football squads. A stubborn Yale team proved quite upsetting to the Big Red.

Heard recently about the college band that meant to spell out the word "Hello" for visiting fans and in some manner the "o" got on the opposite end of the word.

The work of "Tuffy" Leemans with the New York Giants is proving the contention that he should have been a collegiate All-American instead of proving his worth in pro football. He is rated as one of the outstanding pro football players in the country. He formerly played with George Washington University.

Georgetown, one of the eastern college outstanding teams seems to bob up with a 240 pounder about every four years and they have one this year, and playing in the backfield at that.

Pennsylvania's Reagan and team conveyed to school Dist. No. 1 of Thurston. Premises are bounded as follows: On the south by the highway; on the west by school lot and lands of Edwin Merchant and Daniel Weaver; on the north by lands of Amos Chapman; on the east by the center of the highway running northerly from A. W. Keith's along the east line of the lot to Amos Chapman's land and on through the said Amos Chapman's land and the east line of this lot is where said highway is now opened and being used.

Dated this 30th day of October, 1940.

Over 600,000 Families Aided in Housing Under FHA This Year

More than 600,000 families have been enabled to buy, build, or improve their homes under the FHA program thus far in 1940 alone, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald has announced.

"About 630,000 families used the FHA facilities in all of 1939," Mr. McDonald said, "and the FHA program has provided the means for better housing to more than 3,000,000 families in a little more than six years. These families comprise probably at least 12,000,000 persons who are enjoying the benefits of the National Housing Act."

"Further than that, these families financed the buying, building, or modernization of their homes with funds advanced by private financial institutions—some 12,500 of them—at the lowest rates and the most favorable repayment terms and with the strongest safeguards ever available to home owners in this country."

Benefits Widely Known

Dog Lives on 3,300 Mile Diet

Medical authorities estimate that a dog in prime physical condition can exist without food or water for twenty days at the longest. Recently, a two-year-old female fox terrier named Trixie ended fourteen days under these conditions, on a trans-continental journey of 3,300 miles in a sealed box car.

Trixie's owner, Larry Windsor, a lumberjack, missed the dog shortly after a car of lumber left Republic, Wash., twenty-five miles south of the Canadian border, routed to New York. Suspecting she had been locked in the car he telegraphed the ASPCA at the other end to look out for her. They met the train with an ambulance and when they opened the door, sure enough Trixie staggered out alive but too weak to wag her tail. Confident she would recover veterinarians placed Trixie on a special diet until she is strong enough to be shipped home.

Great Lakes Training Ships Called for Atlantic Service

Buffalo—En route from Cleveland to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and subsequent service with the Atlantic fleet, three 75-foot naval militia boats reached Buffalo election day, preparatory for the trip down the New York State Barge Canal.

Each boat was manned by two officers and ten men, all of them Naval Reserves called into active service for an indefinite period. The boats, the U. S. S. YP 24 from Hancock, Mich., the YP 25, from Saginaw, Mich., and the YP 26 from Cleveland have been used for training ships for the Great Lakes during the last several years. They are part of a fleet of twenty assigned to similar duty, with most of them ordered to take the same route to the navy yard.

At Brooklyn, the boats will be conditioned for salt water, and then depart for fleet service. Although no definite orders have been received, officers indicated the boats will probably be assigned to the patrol of the naval bases recently acquired by the United States in the West Indies.

Soldiers of Mercy—

Ithaca—Dr. Foster Kennedy, professor of neurology of the college of medicine of Cornell University, is in charge of a project to organize a group of American surgeons to go to England to help British physicians care for civilians wounded in bombing raids. He reports a goodly number already have volunteered.

Injuries caused by the concussion of bursting bombs has caused a serious health problem in England, says Dr. Kennedy. There have been many instances of men, women and children brought to hospitals for minor injuries, who have died suddenly from bursting lungs, and the constant tension is causing nervous disorder and gastric diseases which doctors know are the result of sustained anxiety.

This project cannot be construed by any enemy as having to do in the slightest degree with a neutral's participation in the war. Medical men going on such an errand of mercy to civilians is a truly American way of helping the suffering, and is a role which even the most inimical of nations must have learned to respect by now.

Ansonia, Conn.—The City Hall polling place was visited Tuesday by a boy who told election officials that his mother had sent him to cast her vote as she was too busy with her housework.

Gen. de Gaulle announced this week that the Gabon Colony of French Equatorial Africa was now on the side of the free French movement. Libreville, principal port of the colony surrendered Sunday.

Sitting up till daylight would be more fun if it didn't take all night to do it.

In the early years of the FHA constant growth of the program was taken for granted. Continued acceleration after six years, Mr. McDonald said, may be attributed to the fact that its benefits have become known to people in every section of every state and territory.

At the present time, he said, half of all the new single-family homes being built in this country are financed under the FHA program and are required to measure up to its standards.

The detailed record follows:

About 158,000 mortgages on new and existing small homes financed under the FHA program have been accepted for insurance under section 203 of the National Housing Act this year through October 19. This compares with 158,000 such mortgages accepted in the entire year of 1939 and brings the grand total to 675,000.

Add Large-Scale Projects

Forty-six mortgages on rental or group housing projects providing about 3,000 dwelling units have become premium-paying this year through October 12. This compares with 117 mortgages providing 18,200 dwelling units which became premium-paying in 1939 and brings the total to 310 premium-paying mortgages on projects providing around 30,300 dwelling units.

About 475,000 property modernization and improvement loans have been reported for insurance this year through October 19. This compares with 512,849 reported in 1939 and brings the grand total to about 2,825,000 loans. Of the number of loans reported this year 93 per cent were for improvement or construction of residential or farm properties.

Proposes Penalizing Non-Voter

The failure of some 665,000 qualified voters of New York State to vote in the presidential election is responsible for the suggestion coming from Republican Senate Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley for a poll tax to penalize the non-voter.

"The maintenance of a democracy depends upon the exercise of suffrage," Hanley said, "and something must be done about the stay-at-homes. Groups of people, propelled by identical interests now vote in certain populous areas while those of other interests in less congested sections don't bother to ballot. As a result you actually get numerous minorities wielding a disproportionate influence."

Unofficial figures on New York's presidential balloting show that more than 500,000 of the 3,571,387 registered voters upstate did not vote, while of New York City's registered 3,338,741 only about 155,000 failed to cast their ballots.

Hanley is considering the introduction of a bill in the 1941 Legislature for a poll tax of perhaps $10 to be levied on every man and woman over 21 years of age and otherwise qualified to vote, such tax to be refunded after the voter had voted in November.

Such a bill would explode a lot of oratorical and editorial fireworks. While we believe every citizen should exercise his sacred privilege of voting in all elections, after all those who choose to refrain from voting are only acting within their constitutional rights. It would be more politic and worse statesmanship to attempt to penalize vote slackers.

ELECTION BRIEFS

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Entering a voting booth here, a Cedar Rapids woman pulled the master lever without indicating her choice. She came out sobbing that she had lost her vote, whereupon sympathetic office officials permitted her to try again.

Sharon, N. H.—83-year-old Citizen Wilson had to wait two and a half miles to cast the number one ballot at 12:01 A. M. Tuesday morning. He had a busy day for he was whisked to New York City to be presented on a Columbia Network broadcast Tuesday night as the man who had cast the first vote in this election.

OMAHA—Harry Senex is 24 years old and partially blind. It took him 70 minutes to mark the seven ballots used in Omaha this year, but prizing his privilege to vote he considered the time well spent.

Muncie, Ind.—The editor of a weekly newspaper here appeared at his voting place Tuesday afternoon clad only in an ancient bathing suit. Unchallenged and shiveringly he cast his ballot. Earlier in the day he had been challenged because he had gone to vote with his coat covered with badges of his candidate. The state law says a voter must not wear into a voting booth any partisan insignia.

Ford Wayne, Ind.—Friends carried Mrs. Belle Wilkie, aunt of the Republican nominee, to a voting place near her home, as she refused to permit a recently sustained broken hip to keep her from voting.

Germany has banned the use of tin in shoe polish cans.

A GOOD CROP FOR HILL FARMS

Many hill farms in New York State have small acres of land that are unsuitable for crop or pasture. This land will grow a good crop of trees, says Warren C. Tuff of the Soil Conservation Service.

The picture shows a small area which was surveyed and plowed on the contour, or on lines at the same elevation across the hill. CCC boys are planting trees in the furrow. This system holds more water for the trees and enables more trees to survive.

Crews such as this will work on farm fields and woods during this year's hunting season so the request is made that Steuben County hunters be careful where they shoot when they see red warning signs indicating that such a crew is nearby.

According to CCC camp records, much of the boys' activity in helping farmers to control erosion has also benefited wildlife.

Stories From Fort Dix Now Heavily Censored

Fort Dix, N. J.—An almost wartime censorship has been clamped down on this Army camp headquarters for the 44th Division. It was disclosed today in instructions to officers and men, regarding newspaper publicity and even the letters they write home to their families.

The troops were warned against "unauthorized" expression of opinion, volunteer newspaper correspondence, told their stories would have to be checked through the press relations office, and a campaign was started to "influence" the soldiers in their private letter writing to present only favorable impressions of Army life.

There orders were posted on the divisional bulletin board, in the form of a public relations memorandum, signed by Col. Herbert D. Forrest, chief of staff and Lieut. Col. John H. Ahrens, adjutant general.

In orders to commanders the memorandum stated:

"Commanders will prevent unauthorized expressions of opinion on military or government policy, and will discourage promiscuous discussion with press representatives of matters beyond the scope of the person interviewed."

The most surprising procedure, however, referred to letter writing among the troops, urging that the "power of suggestion" be used in propaganda work.

"It is the desire of the commanding general that enlisted men be encouraged to write home and that, so far as is reasonable, they be influenced to present a favorable impression of conditions in their units," the orders stated.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I see so many porches which sag and give the house a run-down appearance. How can this be prevented?

A. Sagging porches are often the result of insufficient support. Porch piers are installed for the purpose of supporting the porch and should not be spaced too far apart and should be large enough to carry the weight coming upon them. To avoid the heaving action of frost, footings supporting the piers should be built below the frost line. Sometimes otherwise well built porch piers settle when trenches for pipes are dug too close to them and are not properly refilled.

Q. What should FHA building specifications include?

A. According to the Federal Housing Administration, specifications should amplify the plans or working drawings and should describe fully all processes of the work, the quality of the materials, and the quality of the workmanship to be required. The specifications should outline in detail the kind and quality of materials and equipment, and the method and quality of construction used in the dwelling.

Q. What is the maximum interest rate permitted by the FHA on insured home mortgage loans?

A. 4½ per cent, plus one-half of 1 per cent mortgage-insurance premium.

Q. Can the proper use of exterior materials create an impression of increased size in a small house?

A. Simplicity in exterior design helps to give the small house an appearance of maximum size. The fewer different materials used on the exterior the better the appearance usually will get. The use of several different materials, especially those which contrast in color and texture, usually breaks up the exterior into a series of small units and has the effect of making the house appear smaller. To obtain an appearance of increased size, the small house should be treated as one large color area. Even though several different materials are used the appearance of increased size can be obtained by the use of a single color.

Caribbean Bases Fit for Emergency Say Officials

Washington—That new air and naval bases in the Atlantic and the Caribbean could be used in case of emergency, "although actual work has not begun on them, was claimed by naval officials in Washington."

The United States now has four defense bases in the Caribbean: Guantanamo, Cuba; San Juan, Puerto Rico; St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, and the Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal. A ring of steel around the canal entrance will be provided by the new bases secured from Great Britain. These bases under 99-year lease will be located at Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad, British Guiana and to the north at Bermuda and Newfoundland.

The Newfoundland base is farther along than any of the others, dwellings and plans being fairly well advanced. This base will be located on Placentia Bay. Regarding other bases, officials assert that test holes and soundings are being made. No construction has got underway, although bids on materials have been requested.

The present naval maneuvers in the Caribbean while unprecedented are not for the purpose of occupying any bases, the navy claims. However, in case of emergency, officials say that the new British bases could be occupied in a hurry, using light surface craft and planes. Three months after actual construction begins it is claimed that they will be in condition for greater utilization. It is also asserted that the Newfoundland base of necessary can be used for anchoring flying boats, such as destroyers and torpedo boats.

White House Again Open

Washington—The White House closed to visitors since early summer ostensibly for a new coat of paint, has been reopened to the public.

Because of war conditions and the feeling it might be embarrassing for members of the Diplomatic Corps, Mrs. Roosevelt has announced that the White House diplomatic reception, usually the most colorful event of the official social season, has been cancelled this year.

Before departing on a new lecture trip in Ohio, Illinois and Michigan Mrs. Roosevelt commented on the use she makes of money received from broadcasts, lectures, and writing. In addition to giving freely to organized charities, she disclosed that she had made a large number of loans to people to start new businesses and has employed some people whom she could do without. Some of the loans may be paid back; others may not, she explained. She charges no interest and takes no notes. Her usual lectures fee approximates $1,000 including expenses.

"I have used the money I have made entirely for circulation purposes," declared Mrs. Roosevelt. "None of my family has profited by anything I have made, and I have not one cent more principal than I had in 1932, nor have I made new investments."

Cornell won a cross country meet from seven rivals in New York Saturday afternoon as six of the first 12 runners home in the gruelling race were from Ithaca. John Ayer, a pre-med student of the Big Red was winner.

The American flag should never be displayed with the union down except as a signal to indicate distress.

FLAG FACTS

Although the United States is a youthful nation, by comparison with European standards, the "Stars and Stripes" is the third oldest national standard in the world today.

There has never been a law to designate how the stars on the National Emblem shall be arranged. At first they were placed in a circle then arranged as a large star, and when the number of stars rose to 48 they were placed in rows.

The first American flag flown in 1775, bore the words "Liberty or Death". The first authorized American flag appeared June 14, 1777, with 13 stars and 13 stripes. In 1795 there were 15 stars and 15 stripes, but within a short time the stripes were changed back to 13 and only stars were added for each new state.

Today, the Betsy Ross House in Philadelphia is the only establishment in the United States permitted to fly the flag of 13 stars.

Old Glory never officially contained 47 stars; the number jumped from 46 to 48 on July 4th, 1912.

The American flag floats daily over British soil at Washington's ancestral home in Northamptonshire, England.

The only American flag permitted by statute to be flown at night as well as by day are those over the east and west entrances of the Capitol building at Washington, D. C.

Industry Reaches New Peak With Defense Orders Placed

Industrial production reached a new peak in October, the Federal Reserve Board reports, crediting the actual and prospective activity due to defense orders.

The Board estimated the October production level at 127 percent of the 1935-1939 average, or one point above the previous December high and six points better than the summer rate.

Commenting that defense contracts awarded since spring had reached nearly $8,000,000,000 with an additional $2,000,000,000 committed for naval equipment, the board declared in its monthly review of business conditions:

"Expenditures under many of these contracts will be spread over several years, but there will be a considerable increase during the next few months. Actual outlays by the treasury for all national defense purposes, including current operations of the Army and Navy, have increased from an average of $15,000,000 a month last Spring to over $280,000,000 in October."

Federal orders for uniform fabrics and blankets, the board noted, will require consumption by next spring of about one-fourth as much apparel wool as was consumed for all purposes in 1939.

It is said that while the prices of basic industrial materials advanced during the first three weeks of October to a point midway between the August low and last December high, food prices during September and October had shown little increase over the slight gain of late August.

With the general rise in activity, the board said, railroad shipments of most commodities gained in October; construction increased, and employment and income continued to expand.

Boy Scout Annual Dinner Meeting Mon.

The big event of the year in Scouting will take place at Avoca in the new Central School auditorium, next Monday night, November 18, 1940.

Avoca has been chosen as the location for this event because of the fact that so few buildings in the area will conveniently seat the large number of guests usually served at this dinner.

Not only is the Avoca location ample in capacity, but it is very conveniently located near the center of the Council Area.

Two years ago, ladies were first invited to attend these meetings and the result was so satisfactory that it was decided to make their participation a regular annual occurrence.

The 1940 Annual Dinner will be the occasion for a thankful review of the year's successes, for many very desirable records were established during the year just drawing to a close, among which are listed increased membership, Camp Gordon enrollment, Scout Advancement Leadership Training, Camporee Attendance and Community Quotas. Certainly a record of which President P. G. Schumacher and his staff can be justly proud.

20-Year-Old Boy Is Veteran Explorer

Four expeditions into the Arctic regions have earned at the age of 20 the title of explorer and navigator for David C. Nutt, Cleveland, Ohio.

His father, Joseph R. Nutt, is a former treasurer of the Republican National Committee and is well known in financial circles, but David's keen interest in nature and the outdoors has led him to a career in a different field.

When only 16, David set out for Greenland on the first of his expeditions. Each trip has been made with Capt. Bob Bartlett.

Object of the Arctic journeys has been to obtain wildlife specimens for American museums and zoos. On last year's trip north to get four musk ox calves and specimens of flowers, David was curator and navigator.

On last year's trip north to get four musk ox calves and specimens of flowers, David was curator and navigator.

The added interest in Boy Scout work however, has increased the need for capable workers and for an even greater initiative on the part of those already participating, that we may prove equal to the opportunity for service to this widely recognized program of boy's activities.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Three Italian battleships and smaller warships were smashed in a British air raid on a strong Italian naval base Monday night. The action smashed the backbone of Italy's naval power.

As Premier Molotov arrived in Germany this week the fireworks were set off by British planes which bombed Danzig as he passed through. Molotov's visit is heralded by Axis powers as a step in bringing the Russians into close harmony with them in a great world domination scheme. Neutral observers do not feel so sure Stalin will commit himself to a closer alliance with Hitler in the face of British success in the air.

The earthquake disaster in Rumania spread with new tremors the first of the week. Victims believed first to number one to two thousand may not be more than 800. Mystery of the quake is the strange behavior of the rich oil deposits. Oil has gushed from crevices in regions where it has never been produced and geologists opinion the deep affect of the quake may shift the oil. Nazi soldiers are watching for fires in the fields and helping to repair damaged communications.

Wendell Willkie speaking over a nation wide radio hook-up Monday dispelled all thought he might accept a cabinet post if it were offered him Willkie in pledging allegiance to the President reserved his right to criticize the Administration on occasions when he disagrees with policies. He declared he would continue to fight for the principles he crusaded for in the campaign.

Twelve persons were the victims of poisoned pancakes at a Salvation Army home in Pittsburgh Monday. It was believed roach powder was mixed with the cakes making a deadly food which caused sickness for 31 others besides the dead victims. A discharged cook was suspected.

Many persons were killed in a ferryboat collision in Canada this week, when one vessel rammed another.

Gales and cold weather took the lives of 13 persons in the west the first of the week in a storm which started in the Mackenzie River section.
